The deciduous dentition is made up of primary teeth in humans. These teeth are shed and then replaced by permanent successors. This process of shedding the deciduous teeth and replacement by the permanent teeth is called exfoliation. Exfoliation begins 2 or 3 years after the deciduous root is completely formed.

Over the past ten years or so, a new concept in cottage living has been quietly evolving in and around the Seattle area. Two men, one a noted architect who believes in the value and scale of small houses and the other, a developer willing to gamble on something out of the norm, have successfully developed and marketed a series of compact residential clusters, each consisting of a few Craftsman ...

One revolver that I regularly put in the rotation of various pocket guns I carry around the house is a Parkerized post 1972 Colt Agent, which is a variant of the light, alloy frame Colt Cobra, which in turn is a variant of the carbon steel frame Colt Detective Special. The fit and finish of the later Agents often was not very good, but their factory action and lockup were the same good quality ...
